VI- Reading Comprehension (6 m )

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Your heart is really a muscle. It's located a little to the left of the middle of your chest, and it's about the size of your fist. There are lots of muscles all over your body - in your arms, in your legs, in your back, ...etc. But this muscle is special because of what it does - the heart sends blood around your body. The blood provides your body with the oxygen and nutrients it needs. It also carries away the waste that your body has to get rid of.

Your heart is like a pump or two pumps in one. The right side of your heart receives blood from the body and pumps it to the lungs. The left side of the heart does the exact opposite: it receives blood from the lungs and pumps it out to the body. By the time you're grown up, your heart will be beating about 70 times a minute.

How does the heart beat? Before each beat, your heart fills with blood. Then it contracts to flow the blood along. When something contracts, it squeezes tighter - try squeezing your hand into a fist. That's like what your heart does so it can flow out the blood. Your heart does this all day and all night, all the time. Every day, an adult heart pumps 2,000 gallons (7,500 liters) of recycled blood by filling and contracting. The heart is one tough worker!

VI. Reading Comprehension ( 6Marks)

Read the following passage, then answer the following questions below :

Hurricanes are very bad storms. They cause a lot of damage when they pass over a place. Houses are sometimes flattened and the crops farmers grow are destroyed. Sometimes, people die when they get caught inside, or in floods that wash away their homes.

Hurricanes start far out over the Atlantic Ocean when heat makes air begin to move in a circle, and causes rain. Faster and faster the air with heavy rain speeds around like a wheel rotating around its centre.

The centre is calmer and is called the eye of the hurricane. While the hurricane gets faster the whole rotating wheel of wind and rain moves westwards. It heads for the Caribbean Sea where islands like Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Antigua have to wait and get ready. It might then move towards Jamaica.

If a hurricane heads for an island the people have to make their homes as safe as they can and get enough food to last for several days. The hurricane will knock down poles with electric wires and telephone wires so there might be no lights or power or telephones for some time. But perhaps the greatest danger is caused if floods come with the hurricane. Even strong buildings can be swept away with the people inside them.

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

The great power of tornado is almost unbelievable. The speed of this whirling funnel-shaped wind maybe more than 500 hundred miles per hour. The tornado is like a giant vacuum sweeper that sucks up anything in its path. When this vacuum moves over a building which is filled with air under normal pressure, the difference between the air pressures causes the building to explode. The largest tornado on record had a funnel a mile wide. There are many interesting stories about strange things that tornadoes have done in the US. For example, feathers have been removed from chickens. Cars, trucks and even whole trains have been carried away.

A few years ago on the state of Indiana three people were walking into a church just as a tornado struck. Two walked up the steps and the third person went down into the basement. At that moment, the church building was carried away and the two persons upstairs were killed while the one in the basement was not hurt.

Fortunately, the tornado doesn't last long, about 20 to 30 minutes on the average. Usually it destroys an area about 16 miles long and the great damage that it does in one place lasts only about 30 seconds. Tornadoes normally occur on hot, humid days but not necessarily in the summer. More than 200 tornadoes strike in the US every year. It's not possible to predict when a tornado will strike although the US Weather Bureau gives a strong warning when conditions are right to cause a tornado. The safest place to be if a tornado seems likely is in some underground area such as basements.

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

Neptune is a ball of gas with a metal core. Neptune, also a huge ball of gas, is usually the 8th planet from the Sun. However, for a few years (until February 1999) Pluto was actually closer to the Sun than Neptune. The planet is surrounded by hazy blue clouds and dark rings. Neptune has a large storm cloud called the Great Dark Spot and a smaller white cloud called "Scooter" that paces around the planet. Neptune is the eighth planet from the sun. It is the fourth of the outer planets. Neptune is a blue color, because its atmosphere is mainly made of methane gas, just like Uranus' atmosphere. Also, Neptune's day is about the same length as Uranus' day. It is 17 hours long. One year on Neptune is 165 Earth years. That's right! It takes Neptune 165 years to circle around the sun one time, because it is so far away. Neptune has some interesting features. Jupiter has the "Great Red Spot" that looks like an eye, but Neptune has a "Great Dark Spot." Jupiter's spot is really a storm; however, scientists think that Neptune's spot is a hole in its atmosphere! Neptune has bands of thin white clouds that look like stripes. The cloud patterns change as Neptune spins on its axis.

VI. Reading Comprehension (14 Marks )

Read the following passage, then answer the following questions below:

It is hard to imagine how certain products were invented. How did someone think of the eraser, clay, and potato chips? It turns out many of society's most well-known inventions were simply mistakes made by scientists trying to invent. No one could ever imagine that the flavoured potato chips and the morning best preferred breakfast, corn flakes, were accidentally introduced to the world's kitchens.

Potato chips were first meant to be a plate of fried potato. It was invented by George Crum, a chef at the Carey Moon Lake House. How was it created? One day a customer sent back his plate of potatoes many times and kept asking for them to be more fried and thinner. Crum lost his temper, sliced the potatoes extremely thin and fried them until they were hard as a rock. To the chef's surprise, the customer loved them and wanted more!

Corn Flakes were invented by the Kellogg brothers, John and Will. They were trying to make pots of boiled grain. How was it created? The brothers accidentally left a pot of boiled grain on the stove for several days. The mixture turned bad but there was something that was dry and thick. Through experimentation they removed the bad part and created corn flakes. Wouldn't it be nice if you could invent something by mistake?

VI- READING COMPREHENSION (14 Marks)

The next time you feel the need to use the words "can't" or "impossible" you need to stop and think again. After you read the story of Jessica Cox you will understand why.

Jessica Cox, a Filipino American, was born without arms. Yet she can type, drive a car, brush her hair and talk on the phone simply using her feet. Ms. Cox, is also a former dancer and has a black belt in the sport of Tai Kwon Do. "I never say, I can't do that. I just say, I haven't worked it out yet." She said.

"When I was born, my parents were shocked. But they never made me feel like I was any different. Other people always stared at me or made comments but I turned negative feelings into something positive. It has made me strong and determined," she added.

Jessica had one great fear. The fear of flying. But three years ago she was given the chance to overcome this fear. A charity that helps people with disabilities fulfill their dreams approached Jessica and offered her a course in flying. At first she didn't believe it! But slowly, step by step, she overcame that fear. It took her three years to earn a license in flying.

"Now you have done it all," people would say. "Of course not," I'd reply. "I still want to do mountain climbing, and also I want to be able to tie my hair in a pony tail. Those hair ties are driving me crazy."

Jessica Cox is living proof that people with disabilities can set goals and achieve them.

II-Reading Comprehension (14 Marks)

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

The lady was glad to be back at the block of flats where she lived. Her shopping and her basket had grown heavier with every step on the way home. In the lift, her thoughts were on lunch and a good rest, but when she got out at her floor, both were forgotten in her sudden discovery that her front door was open. She walked slowly into the hall and at once noticed that all the room doors were open. She was sure she had shut them before she saw a scene of disorder on her writing desk.

It was as clear as daylight that robbers had found an entry during her absence. She thought to go round all the rooms looking for the thieves, but then she decided that at her age it might be more sensible to have someone with her, so she went to fetch the servant from the basement. By this time her legs began to tremble, so she sat down and drank a cup of strong tea, while she was telephoning the police. Then she was ready to ask the servant's assistance to search for any thieves who might still be there in her flat.

When the police came, they began to look for fingerprints and check the front door locks to see whether the thieves had used keys or entered over the balcony. No trace of fingerprints was found, but the inspector found a dirty red bundle that contained jewelry which the lady said was not hers. So their entry into this flat was not apparently the robber's first job that day and they must have been disturbed. The inspector then told the lady to try to check what was missing by next day and advised her not to stay alone in the flat for a few nights.
