Reading Comprehension*Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

No matter how you define happiness for yourself, there are certain universal and time-proven strategies to bring, and sustain more happiness into your life. The following ways to live a happy life can be adapted and even customized to fit your needs.

Write out a short list of the simple things that give you pleasure. Keep them in front of your consciousness and make sure you engage with them at least a few times a week. As you do these things, stay present and mindful of the joy they bring you. Whatever movement inspires you, do it and observe the happiness and freedom it brings. Also, take a short walk after having a meal. This not only helps with digestion, but also instantly relieves any heavy feelings. Support your body, mind and spirit with simple meals three times a day. Eating light helps us to feel lighter and also increases concentration, digestion, energy levels, and productivity. Waking up in the morning and taking a cold shower revives and wildly awakens the senses. Cold showers improve circulation and relieve depression. They Keep skin and hair healthy. They also Increase energy and well-being.

Talk less and listen more to your friends' tone as they share rather than thinking about how you are going to respond. Pay attention to what happens to your energy when you talk less, and how much happier you feel as you conserve more energy. Get 10 minutes of sun a day. Well-documented research shows there is a relationship between low vitamin D levels and poor health.

Also, light hitting your skin, not just your eyes, helps reverse seasonal affective disorder. Rather than watching TV, use your time more mindfully. Read, walk, meet friends, or join an evening group or class. Use your time to connect to others and yourself. Or jump in and do something different. Even if you don't consider yourself an artist there are so many ways to express creatively. Find the nature that surrounds you—really see it. Observe yourself as you witness nature and appreciate its growth and timing.

IV. Reading Comprehension, Summary making & Translation.

Read the following passage carefully then answer the questions below:

Someday soon, I may be the last man in the United States without a cell phone. To those who see mobile phones as progress, I say: they aggravate noise pollution and threaten our freedom. The central idea of having cell phones is that you are connected to almost everyone and everything at all times. The trouble is that cell phones assault your peace of mind no matter what you do. If you turn your mobile phone off, why have one in the first place? You just irritate anyone who might call. If they are on and no one calls, you will certainly feel that you are irrelevant, unloved or both. If everyone calls, you are a basket-case then.

Of course, cell phones have good uses. For those who are constantly on the road like salesmen, repair technicians and reporters they are always on call. The same is true for critical workers such as doctors, firefighters...etc. Needed at a moment's notice. Otherwise the benefits of having a mobile phone seem to be doubtful or overstated. Mobiles for teens were sold as a way for parents to keep an eye on their children. That absolutely works, but up to a certain point. The point is when your kids switch off the phones. For instance, two of my teens have cell phones, but whenever I want those most, their phones are off.

Then, there is a sheer nuisance. The private conversations have gone public. We've all been subjected to someone else's sales meeting, or dinner reservation. How valuable is all this chitchat? The average conversation lasts two to three minutes. Surely many could be postponed or forgotten.

A lot of people claim that the cell phones increase your freedom while actually they steal it. People so devoted to staying interconnected with everyone are kept in a perpetual state of anxiety because they have missed some more significant memo, or bits of news.

All this is the wave of the future or, more precisely, the present phones are becoming an irresistible force, but I am determined to resist and never have a mobile phone.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage and then answer the questions:

Buying things today is so simple. Just enter a shop, say a book store, choose the desired book and pay for it. Long ago, before the invention of money, how did people trade?

The most primitive way of exchange should be the barter trade. In this form of transaction, people used goods to exchange for the things that they had in mind. For instance, if person wanted a book and he had a spare goat, he must look for someone who had the exact opposite. Many years later, the cumbersome barter trade finally gave way to the monetary form of exchange when the idea of money was invented. In the early days, almost anything could qualify as money: beads, shells and even fishing hooks. Then in a region near Turkey, gold coins were used as money. In the beginning, each coin had a different denomination. It was only later, in about 700 BC, that Gyges, the king of Lydia, standardized the value of each coin and even printed his name on the coins.

Monetary means of transaction at first beat the traditional barter trade. However, as time went by, the thought of carrying a ponderous pouch of coins for shopping appeared not only troublesome but thieves attracting. Hence, the Greek and Roman traders who bought goods from people faraway cities, invented checks to solve the problem. Not only are paper checks easy to carry around, but they also discouraged robbery as these checks can only be used by the person whose name is printed on the notes. Following this idea, banks later issued notes in exchange for gold deposited with them. These bank notes can then be used as cash.

Finally, governments of today adopted the idea and began to print paper money, backed by gold for the country's use. Today, besides enjoying the convenience of using paper notes as the mode of exchange, technology has led man to invent other means of transaction too like the credit and cash cards.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below.

There are a lot of different family celebrations; holidays with all the good foods everybody brings to the table, a birthday, the birth of a child, weddings that add additional members to the family. A family celebration is a time to celebrate and enjoy the surrounding of your family, enjoying everyone you love and miss. It is filled with pictures and wonderful memories that you will never forget or even want to forget. We will and have had celebrations that will pass on to other family members from generation to generation, including your children and their children.

A celebration in a family gives pleasure to all the members of the family. Friends and relatives also attend the occasion and share the pleasure. Pleasure multiplies when there is a wedding in the family. I drew immense pleasure when the marriage ceremony of my cousin was held. It was performed on 23rd of the last month. We had not seen any marriage celebration in our family beforehand. My cousin was the first child to be married in the family. His marriage was celebrated with great enthusiasm. Preparations for the marriage started one month before the celebration. Invitation cards were printed and were sent to friends and relatives.

There was a great excitement and joy among us to see the preparations for the wedding celebration in our family. Decorations were made on the day before the marriage ceremony. There was a canopy made of coloured cloths. The space was meant for the marriage feast. Sweets were made and kept for the guests. The feast on the date of the wedding was very delicious. Cold drinks were ready. Large quantities of fresh fruits were also arranged for the guests. Traditionally, my father and uncle stood at the gate to receive the guests. First, the guests were served sweets and cold drinks. Many guests had brought different gifts for my cousin who was the bridegroom. The marriage ceremony was held after the reception. Many senior members were present. The bride and the groom exchanged garlands and sacredly accepted each other as the partner of life.

Reading Comprehension& Summary Making

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below.

We are living in an electronic age. The whole world is taking a new turn with every fraction of time. It has given birth to globalization. There are a lot of new means of communication which have made our life so simple and easy going. Mobile phones can be seen as the most used present day phenomenon in this fast growing time. They work on a unique network system which needs no wiring, no fixation and no botheration.

The cell phone was first tested in 1978. The market in Britain alone had grown at a rapid rate to 8.5 million users by 1997. In Japan it is as high as one mobile phone per ten people. However, when the number of users had increased, many new subscribers are low users. In the United Kingdom cable operators are giving five hundred thousand extra subscribers per month. Presently China tops the list of the mobile user countries. India does not lag behind. It is fast approaching to equalize or even supersedes the status of China. When we think over the advantage of a cell phone in comparison to the old rigid telephones, we can say that the greatest advantage of the cell phone is that it can be used anywhere, anytime. It can send a message, store a date. It can function as computer and a whole world in one's hand. By it, update speed of the whole information has become fast. No doubt, it has changed the whole scenario of the world.

The mobile phone has become necessity for today's world. But the new generation is misusing it by distorting its uses. Some innocent people are being exploited through it. MMS, video clippings, picture messaging are some of the ways which are being misused. There should be strict legal procedure against such distortion of this cellular age. One cannot deny the change in life with the change of time but when this change is over-exposed it is called pollution. We must balance these two phenomena in order to create a healthy world.

VI. Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Fires are to blame for the loss of countless lives and billions of dollars every year. Firefighters help protecting people and their property from injury and damage and they put their life on the line every time they respond to a call.

While on duty, firefighters must be ready to respond in a matter of minutes to just about any disaster that may occur. At every scene, a superior fire officer takes command and directs the jobs of all the personnel at the scene. Some firefighters operate hose lines to hydrants while others manually operate the pumps to send water to the hoses. Teams of firefighters also operate ladders used to reach distances high in the air.

In addition to responding and handling fire calls, firefighters provide emergency medical services as well. The Majority of calls that firefighters respond involve emergency medical situations. They receive a great deal of emergency medical training. Many fire departments require that all employees be certified emergency medical technicians, when they are not helping someone in need, firefighters spend much of their time at fire stations. Each fire station that employs full-time firefighters usually has a dormitory facility where firefighters can sleep when working long shifts. When the alarm sounds in the fire stations, firefighters rush into action, regardless of time day or weather.

In the line of duty, firefighters encounter a variety of harmful substances. They are highly trained to deal with these substances. They are often exposed to high temperatures, smoke and a variety of harmful gases. In some cases, they are exposed to radioactive and hazardous materials that have a long –term negative effect on their health.

To help firefighters do their job in such extreme conditions, they use the latest fire prevention technology available to them. They wear a fire retardant coats and pants that can withstand very high temperatures. They wear boots that withstand even greater temperatures, in cases they actually have to walk on a structure that is swallowed in flames. They also usually wear helmets that are equipped with oxygen masks that help them breathe in smoke- filled areas that are filled with harmful gases.

While on duty, firefighters must be ready to respond in a matter of minutes to just about any disaster that may occur. At every scene, a superior fire officer takes command and directs the jobs of all the personnel at the scene. Some firefighters operate hose lines to hydrants while others manually operate the pumps to send water to the hoses. Teams of firefighters also operate ladders used to reach distances high in the air.

VI. Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Pollution is any contamination of the environment, which causes harm to the environment and the inhabitants. There are many kinds of pollution; air, soil, and water. Some less harmful, which are radioactive noise, light pollution, and greenhouse gases.

Air pollution can be caused by particles, liquids, or gases that make the air harmful to breathe. There are two main types of air pollution: primary and secondary. Soil pollution can be caused by pesticides, leakage from chemical tanks and oil flows. It can also cause water pollution when underground water becomes infected by coming into contact with the polluted soil. Water pollution can be caused by waste products, sewage, oil flows, and litter in rivers, lake and oceans. Some scientists believe that water pollution is the largest cause of death and disease in the world causing about 14,000 deaths in the world each day.

Noise pollution can be caused by vehicle, aircraft, and industrial noise. It can also be caused by military or experimental sonar. Noise has health effects on people and animals. In people, it can cause high blood pressure, heart problems, sleep disturbances, and hearing problems. In animals, it can cause communication, reproductive, and navigation problems – they have difficulty finding their direction.

In addition, greenhouse gases have caused a warming effect on the earth's climate. The greenhouse gases are water vapor, carbon dioxide, methane, and ozone. They are naturally-occurring gases in the atmosphere, but human activity has increased their concentration in the atmosphere. For example, the levels of carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) in the atmosphere have risen due to the burning of fossil fuels. The effect is a rise in global temperatures. The higher temperatures cause the melting of glaciers, a rise in the water level of oceans, and the damaging of both land and marine life, including that of humans. Although carbon dioxide is necessary for plants to survive, it is also considered to be a kind of pollution because high levels of carbon dioxide have caused the oceans to become more acidic.

VI. Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

When we are young, we learn that tigers and sharks are dangerous. We might be scared of them because they are big and powerful. As we get older, however, we learn that sometimes the most dangerous animals are also the smallest animals. In fact, the animal that kills many people every year is the mosquito.

While it may seem that all mosquitoes are biters, this is not actually the case. Male mosquitoes eat plant nectar. Female mosquitoes feed on animal blood. They need this blood to live and produce eggs. When a female mosquito bites a human being, it transmits a small amount of saliva into the blood. The result of the bite can be as minor as an itchy bump or as serious as death.

Because a mosquito can bite many people in the course of its life, it can carry diseases from one person to another. Two of the most deadly diseases carried by mosquitoes are malaria and yellow fever. More than 700 million people become sick from these diseases every year. At least 2 million of these people die from these diseases.

Many scientists are working on safer ways to kill mosquitoes, but so far, there is no sure way to protect everyone in the world from their bites. Mosquito nets can be placed over beds to protect people against being bitten. These nets help people stay safe at night, but they do not kill any mosquitoes. Mosquitoes have many natural enemies like bats, birds, dragonflies, and fish. Bringing more of these animals into places where mosquitoes live might help to cut down the amount of mosquitoes in that area. This is a natural solution, but it does not always work very well. Mosquitoes can also be killed with poisons. Even though these sprays kill mosquitoes, they may also harm other plants or animals.

Although mosquitoes may not seem as scary as larger more powerful animals, they are far more dangerous to human beings, but things are changing. It is highly likely that one-day scientists will find a way to keep everyone safe from mosquitoes and the diseases they carry.
