She was looking for a bottle of water in the fridge. She found one on the floor of the kitchen.

Luckily, I was close to her when she lifted the bottle to her mouth and drank a little. She cried in a choked voice. I looked at the bottle and was horrified to find out that it contained a cleaning chemical. I put my finger into her mouth and made her vomit, and then I called the doctor and told him about what had happened and what I had done. VI. READING COMPREHENSION -14 MARKS-

*Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

The moon is our nearest neighbor in space, so a visit to the moon has been the aim of space explorers. The moon is about a quarter of a million miles away. Our Earth is four times bigger than the moon, which circles round us once a month. The Earth turns too, turning a different face to the moon every night.

The movement of the moon and the Earth together as they circle the sun gives us our fixed months, days and nights. We can see with any telescope that the moon has high mountains. Between the mountains there are empty places which astronomers still call "seas." We know now that there are no seas of water on the moon. There are also round holes which were probably made by rocks hitting the moon.

The atmosphere of the moon is like a thin cover over the moon's face while our own atmosphere is thicker. We can only see half the moon from the Earth. The other half is always turned away as it circles us. But this half was first seen in 1959 when the Russian spaceship travelled around the moon for the first time.
